How Do I Buy or Handle…

Freight Management Services for Inbound Freight using Vantage Point Logistics (VPL)

Buyer Contact Information:

Jordan Stump

Description of Process:

Inbound small package freight management services as an area where consolidated spend can afford savings opportunities. The freight management model by VPL will bill for freight separately at a much lower cost. VPL focuses primarily on freight cost reduction and custom invoicing for decentralized AP environments.

Purchase Orders:

- Verbiage appears on our Purchase Orders instructing our vendors to use our inbound freight FEDEX or UPS number for all shipments to the university.
- Vendors should no longer apply their own shipping and handling to inbound shipments of purchased product to the University.
- If shipping/handling is included in turnkey price OR shipping/handling is free, vendors will be instructed to disregard.
- Since Virginia Tech now has access to the VPL inbound freight program, estimated freight does not count towards the sole source requirement threshold of greater than $10,000.
- Non-routine inbound freight:
  - VPL and VT have agreed that when an inbound freight shipment is not of a routine delivery, would require additional oversight or special accommodations such as air ride equipped services, customs brokerage services, and/or special equipment to be arranged and ready for off load and/or installation or specialized freight services due to the warranty or fragility of the items, both parties will consider those shipments “out of scope” in regard to the VPL Inbound Freight Program.
In these situations, the university will either direct the vendor to not ship through the VPL program (thus instructing them to ignore the “contact VPL” verbiage on the purchase order) or if the vendor does contact VPL, then VPL will instruct the vendor to handle shipping arrangements directly.

Should there be any question regarding whether a shipment meets the definition of a “white glove” freight shipment, both parties agree that VPL will always defer to instructing the vendor to handle the shipment, thus, taking a very conservation approach in that decision making.

The procurement needs regarding importing, freight forwarding and customs brokerage are not in the scope of services that VPL can provide at this time.
